

College of Insurance
Insurance Institute of India, Mumbai
Marine Hull Insurance
Program ID: - CPG19
(From: 24th to 27th September, 2018)

Relevance of the Program:-

Insurance of Marine Hulls has been a very challenging subject due to the different laws, conventions and interpretation of clauses. The maritime industry stretching across the world, encompasses a huge variety of different activities: tankers, gas carriers, container vessels, cruise liners, bulk carriers, ferries, dredgers, oil field support vessels, tugs and barges, to name a few.

This program helps participants to reflect on the changes and developments which have been occurring in the industry that have a direct impact on the way a ship operator manages safety and implements its SMS. The focus is on the three major types of marine insurance: Protection & Indemnity (P&I), Hull & Machinery (H&M) and Freight Demurrage and Defence (FD&D).

Program Objective:-

- ✓ Discuss Salient features of Institute Time Clauses
- ✓ Investigate the challenges associated with Underwriting and Rating practices
- ✓ Dissect the major issues faced when making claims under a hull policy, ensuring major incidents are covered and avoiding losses and delays
- ✓ Analyse the considerations involved with general average adjustments
- ✓ Explore the factors considered when assessing risks, and provide a greater understanding of how your premium is calculated

Participant Profile:-

This course provides an excellent opportunity for persons working for shipping lines/Insurance Companies/ Marine Insurance Brokers to improve their knowledge in Marine Hull Insurance.
