Relevance of the Program:-

Engineering insurance has all along been a steadily growing portfolio. Consequent to detariffing of premium rates, the portfolio has seen stiff competition among the insurers and caused considerable concerns of profitability among the underwriters. With a liberalised economy and increasing industrialisation, the demand for Engineering insurance policies covering construction and related activities is expected to increase. Large size privately funded infrastructure projects require new approaches and new insurance covers to suit the specific needs of project sponsors and financiers. The emphasis on Advance Loss of Profit (ALOP) [also known as Delay in Start-up Insurance (DSU)] covers would require developing advanced skills in underwriting and claims management. Keeping pace with such developments and consequential changes in techniques used for analyzing and assessing risks assumes priority for insurers. Recognizing this requirement of the market, the College of Insurance has developed a specific course on Engineering insurance intended for those engaged in providing a variety of insurance services in this area.

Program Objective:-

- To update the participants' concepts and understanding of different Engineering insurance policies such as CAR, EAR, ALOP
- Critical appreciation of policy wordings and standard endorsements
- Familiarisation with underwriting and claims management practices and procedures
- To appreciate critical insurance needs of project financiers and develop skills to incorporate in underwriting
- Understanding reinsurance aspects relating to Project insurance policies,
- Deliberation on case studies on actual losses in project insurance policies.
