

Virtual Training Session on Soft Skills for Insurance and Bancassurance Professionals (CVT – SSIBP) – 29th May, 2021

It is often said “Hard skills “get you hired but lack of soft skills get you fired. To be precise hard skills refer to “what” to say whereas soft skills refer to “how” to say. Soft skills are not a replacement for hard skills, but both are complimentary to each other. Organisations have now started recognizing need for soft skills which are essential for maintaining better relationships with clients, subordinates, bosses and colleagues.

Soft skills enable us to utilize efficiently the technical skills and knowledge. The demand for reliance on soft skills has been growing exponentially due to changes in the work environment, customer driven markets, information based economies, advancements in technologies and globalization.
