

College of Insurance
Insurance Institute of India, Mumbai
Crop Insurance
Program ID: CPG10
(From: 03rd to 04th August, 2020)

Relevance of the Program:-

The country's priority of providing Insurance support to the highly vulnerable agriculture sector has been evidenced through the 5- year plans, NITI Aayog and different Governmental initiatives, the latest being the Pradhan Mantri Fasal Bima Yojana (PMFBY). The rural landscape and associated risks are changing fast and the insurance industry has been responding to the need by providing policies based on different approaches like protecting input costs, loss assessment by crop cutting experiments, parametric annual and weather based, etc.

As the country is gearing itself up to protect the risks faced by farmers through various schemes, insurers need to understand the technical merits and demerits of the different approaches and models used.

Program Objective:-

- To understand the behavioural environment in which the crop insurance works.
- Appreciate the merits and demerits of the different approaches towards crop insurance.
- To discuss the features of the popular policies in the market.
- Underwriting aspects of crop Insurance.
- Evaluate the challenges in assessment/settlement of claims.
- To understand major crops, major cropping seasons and cropping patterns.
- Analyse the regulatory mechanism /Framework for crop insurance.
- Comparing crop insurance in India with Global practices.
- Role of Insurtech in crop Insurance.
