Relevance of the Program:-

The Insurance markets in India were opened up in the year 1999, along with the formation of the Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority of India whose role is to develop and regulate the Insurance business and the industry players.

During its life of close to two decades, the IRDAI has issued a number of regulations and guidelines on various subjects. These include Regulation on Registration of Insurance companies, Licensing of Agents, Insurance Product Design, Valuation, Financial Reporting, Policyholders' rights protection etc., It is imperative that all the players in the industry should comply with the Regulations issued by the Regulator on various aspects relating to conduct insurance business while carrying out their business. Any non-compliance or breach of these Regulations can attract penalties.

To comply with these Regulations, one should have a thorough knowledge and understanding about the various Regulations, including their compliance, and their implications for the business.
