

Virtual Training Session on Industrial Risk Inspection - Methods & Reporting (CVT-IRI) Program ID – CPG14 (28th July, 2022)

Underwriting the risk requires pre-understanding of the risk-factors. In many of the medium and large risks the underwriters require a pre-insurance inspection done by an experienced professional having the knowledge of what to see, whom to meet and how to report with photographs and videos of the situations on the ground. The report should be scripted with pictorial presentations with the relevant areas highlighting the risk situations in the field in an uncluttered manner. The report should be very systematic, communicative and concise at the same time with any relevant attachment of the documents/photographs therewith. It may be for an engineering project or for a running factory.

In addition to the pre-insurance risk inspections, the course will also touch upon the relevant points on Inspection & Survey, in post loss scenario, as to how to react to the first information and what to see, what to document, and how to prepare an effective preliminary report to set a strong foundation for further proceedings in the matter of Survey. Since it's a 3 hrs program in all, final survey and assessment details are beyond the scope of this course.

Program Objectives: The Program is of half a day's duration, 10AM to 1PM, Online. It aims at helping the participants to gain and improve their knowledge with practical orientations on:

- How to have a quick inspection of the industrial risk, in particular, from the viewpoints of underwriting the proposed risks.
- How to prepare a report with the relevant details for the underwriters in the back office
- The Surveyors (Licensed and In-house) need to react, inspect and report the post-incident scenario quickly and effectively to put up a stable foundation for the survey process to proceed further.
- A stable initial inspection does always avoid future complications/disputes in the course of the final survey

Participant's Profile:

- The Program is designed for In-house inspecting officials of the insurers and Brokers, Underwriters, Claims Executives, Clients' insurance executives and the Surveyors. Each participant shall be awarded with a Certificate on completion of the training.
